STUDENT LIFE

Oct. 1 marked the beginning of four days of Warpath '69 spirit. The Gay 90's was the scene on this day as students dressed themselves for Old Fashioned Day.

Thursday, Shorts Day, brought victory once again to the Whangdapootanowhas in the annual Powderpuff Game. The favored Whangies demolished Friend's Fiends with a 28-0 tally. Thursday evening witnessed a successful parade and bonfire in the midst of enthusiastic spectators.

Friday was School Colors Day, and in the halls were seen nothing but red and white. Dawn Harms was crowned Queen that night, and reigned at the dance Saturday. Bill Hood and Fred Keck tied for Mr. Football, which was announced at the dance.

Months of planning and hours of decorating transformed CHS cafeteria into a giant "Moon-lit Carousel". This was the theme of the GAA Ball which was held on Dec. 6, 1969. The evening was climaxed with the coronation of the Ball queen and her court. Couples enjoyed music provided by the World Column.

Not long after the ball, the ol' Christmas spirit engulfed CHS. Halls and classrooms were decorated for the occasion. The Junior class won the honors of having the best decorated hall. Entitled "Winter Wonderland," the hall was transformed into an array of falling snowflakes.

The Homemakers once again gave out Christmas cheer baskets to area families. In short, the Christmas season at CHS is a happy one.

The dress code is gone!

The Student Council was faced with a problem. CHS students wanted to follow the changing fads. But what about the dress code? The S.C. had to do something. They started in January. Girls would be able to wear slacks for one month. Polls were taken. It came very close between changing or abolishing the code. The S.C. went even farther. After many discussions they appealed to the School Board to abolish the code. It worked. Now CHS students can wear anything, that is, parents permitting.

(LEFT) Many meetings were held in order to solve the dress code feud. (BELOW) Bonnie Peek, Starr Ross, and Kathy Goocher show the effects when you don't have to live by the code.

“Underground” clubs flourish

The Rafter Rats, Pinochle Club, and Coffee Club were C.H.S.'s three most popular “unofficial” clubs. The Rats got together at basketball games; the Pinochlers, when “official” clubs convened; and the C.C.-ers, whenever they could sneak away to their cars without being spotted by Assistant Principal Joe Yacko.

The Rafter Rats first got into trouble because of the content of their cheers and, at the Andean game, for passing around two lightweight members. Because they disliked police and administration “harassment” at the game, they disbanded, but got back together for the Sectional.

Perhaps there is joy in midterms, but if there is it is on the part of teachers and it is a sadistic type of joy — at least from a student's point of view.

Some students see these mind-mangling monsters as teachers' tools of revenge for past wrongdoing by students toward them.

But most students know that teachers are only doing their best to help them retain knowledge — or do they?

Every school has pep sessions to boost school spirit. And Calumet is no exception. Pep sessions were held throughout the football and basketball seasons in honor of the guys who do the real work.

CHS's best pep session was held during basketball sectional time. That's when the Rats returned and all was well. Loyalty Day brought with it skits, jokes, and spirit. The rafters rang as students echoed, "FIGHT"

Next year will bring lots more pep sessions and lots more spirit.

Winter fun summed up in one word — YAAA-HOOOOOOOOOOOOO!

What's there to do in the winter? Calumet students always find time for winter fun, participating in snowball fights, skating, and tobogganning. As the snowy grounds and icy air began to fade away, most kids could really say, "It was pretty cool!"

Spring changes school atmosphere

After the cold, dreary winter months slipped by, CHS students seemed to perk up at the sight of the sun. Spring had finally arrived and the yen for the out-of-doors became more and more apparent. "The pit" became the place to be when high noon heat rose into the nineties. Those who didn't go to the pit kept cool by participating in innocent squirt gun fights.

Despite these time consuming activities, students did complete their springtime courses. Finals week crept up without warning and frustrated students unwillingly took their last test of the year. May 29 seemed like a holiday to the sophomores and juniors when they picked up their report cards. Another year had ended and all looked forward to the summer months ahead.

“A Time For Us”

Time seemed to be running out in the year, but for one night minutes or hours didn't matter. Friday, May 8, brought "A Time For Us" to well over one hundred couples.

Decorating presented a problem, so by seven o'clock Friday morning twenty jumping juniors started their project. Pink, blue, yellow, and green streamers became more and more apparent on walls and windows. After climbing ladders, covering tables, and cutting chicken wire, the surroundings provided shade to the weary workers as they dined with their Whoppers under the trees.

As evening's eight o'clock drew near, long-gowned princesses and gallant gentlemen began arriving at the hall. The grounds of the Salvatorian Fathers Monastery proved to be mood-making as couples roamed the walks in search of peaceful moments together.

The Grand March commenced and after twisting through tables and losing places, it ended with the crowning of Dorothy Nimetz and Duane Cheek as Prom Queen and King.

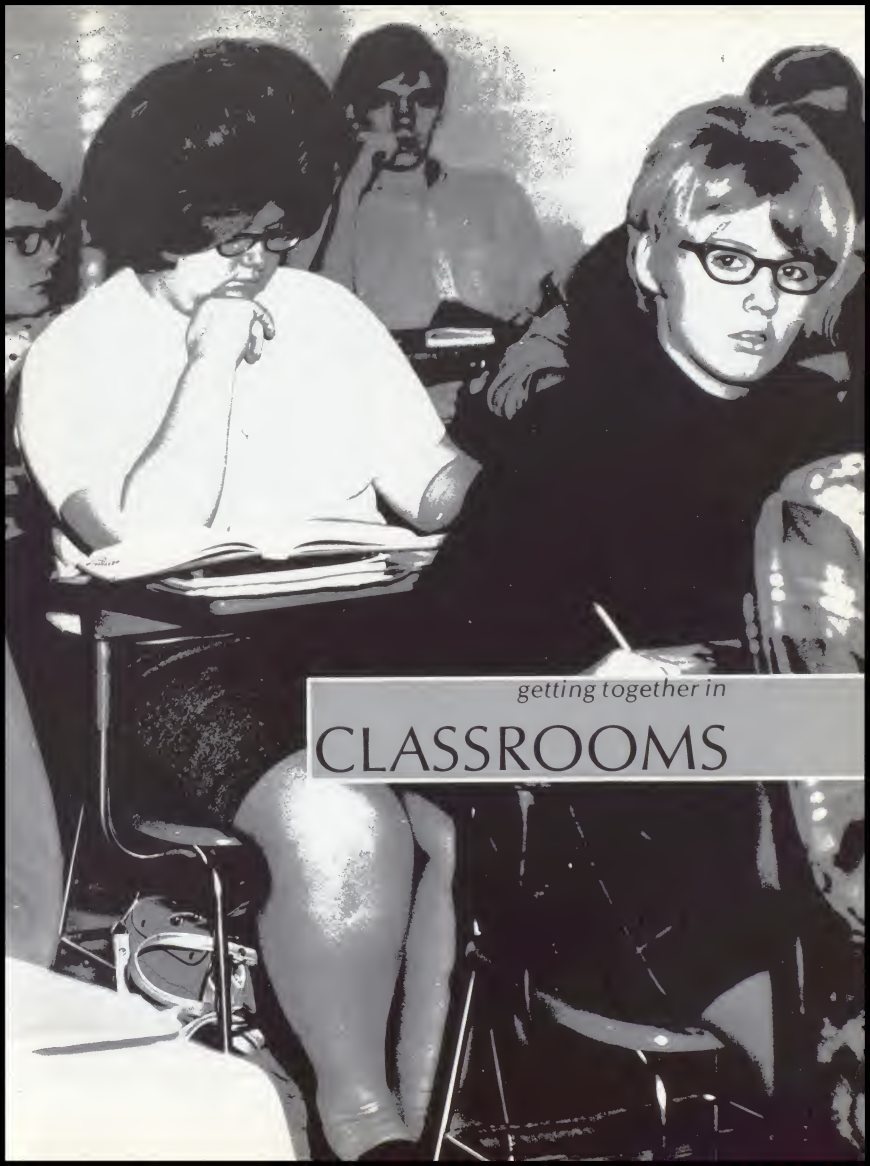

The quiet mood was soon broken when couples began arriving at the Sherwood Club for Post Prom activities. Food was the first order of business, then plates were taken away and the Dontays began to enchant the crowd with music from CTA, Joe Cocker, and many others.

Finally, the realization of time became apparent and the early morning dew was trod upon by happy people who found time to smile and make someone else happy.

With the head seats, after the school board, of course, being occupied by superintendent Alfred Speck and asst. superintendent Edward Mundy, the administration guided C.H.S. through another successful school year.

This year the administration decided on an important issue dealing with the dress code. Its decision concerning the code surprised some and shocked most. It consented to student wishes by giving its okay to abolish the code, thus establishing a better relationship with the students.

Language students learn

Calumet started off the school year with 36 English classes. Their activities and lessons consisted of creating and publishing their own newspapers, mastering a skit or play, pondering over Shakespeare, writing compositions and book reports, and diagramming simple and compound sentences.

The composition and journalism classes gained experience in writing as they prepared for college or professional writing. Speech classes learned to conquer fear and nervousness when they got up in front of their class or a crowd of people and tried to get a message across.

While the English department was doing all this, the Spanish classes enjoyed their pinatas at Christmas-time. Students taking French taught by Mrs. Houllis and Mrs. Waldron conjugated verbs and read short stories and novels in French. Because of lack of students, only Latin II was offered.

a challenge — probing the unknown

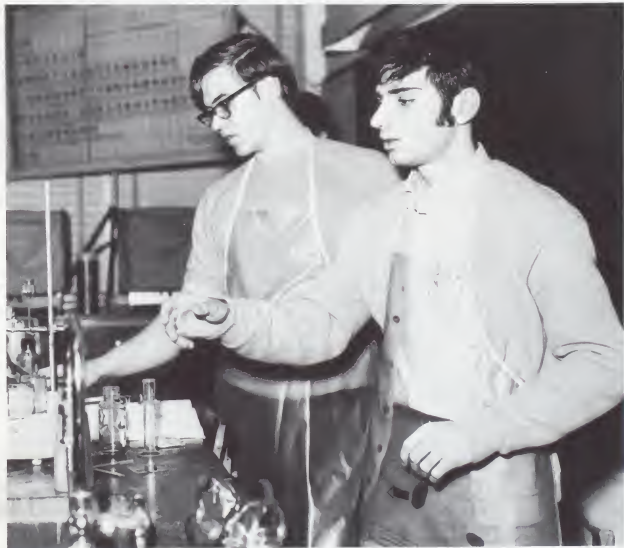

It seems that if a student really wants a challenge, he chooses a math or science course. It is in these classes he is given an opportunity to tackle a problem — to probe the unknown.

Since the beginning of time these two subjects have puzzled the minds of men. A student has something to discover whether it is an X or Y in an algebra problem or a formula in chemistry.

To discover this and to keep on discovering — it is no wonder a student chooses math or science courses.

Current events and issues guide

Social studies is one of the required subjects at Calumet High School. Students learn about past and current events, and this helps them in understanding world problems.

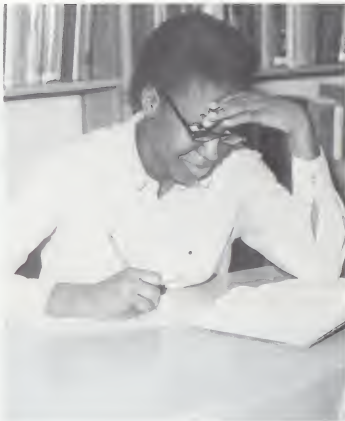

Learning about George Washington or World War I aren't the only advantages of this subject. Students in the sociology classes listened to a guest speaker on drugs and U.S. history students visited the famous Field Museum of Natural History.

One day these students will be old enough to participate in government affairs, so these classes will prepare them a little for the task of future problems.

Physical fitness stressed in

Students enrolled in a health class or a physical education class have the chance to learn about their body and build one better and more physically fit. Since these are required subjects every student gets the same chances. Starting last fall and with the sophomores, two years of physical education are required. We now have a fieldhouse and new facilities and equipment, which we did not have before, to make these two required years possible.

With models of the parts of the body, the health classes obtained a better understanding of their anatomy and the problems and diseases of the body.

up routine classes

As the girls in the cooking classes burn their fingers on a hot dish, the girls in the sewing classes prick their fingers on pins and needles. These are only some of the trying experiences girls go through in home economics as they prepare for life as a housewife or mother. The clothing classes teach all about fabrics, threads, and needles, and how to use the right kind safely and correctly. In foods girls learn how to cook various meals and strive for a better understanding of all kinds of food.

Guys taking shop classes learn about and work with many kinds of woods, metals, and welding. Mechanical drawing classes are also included.

As usual, they took their annual trip to Indiana State University in Terre Haute for the homecoming. They marched in the Veteran's Day Parade down Broadway and the Fourth of July Parade in Black Oak, to name a few. Each April they hold a "Spring Concert" in the evening. To try something new the Warriorettes performed at numerous basketball games at half time.

for spring

A cappella choir has made a few performances this year. The first week in March they participated in a concert at Griffith High School. During the first portion of the program each school present a concert of their own. The combined choirs of Highland, Griffith, Portage, and Munster performed for the second portion.

Included in the music classes were the boys' chorus, the girls' chorus, and Voice I classes, all led by Miss Langston.

This is only one of the trying experiences students go through in typing class. Similar ones occur in shorthand and other business classes.

Business classes prepare for future careers

Artistic talents unfold in Art

The art classes at Calumet High School not only provide a chance for artistically inclined students to display their talents, but do so in an unrestrained atmosphere. Here students have an outlet for their tension and worries. What could be better than taking it out on a piece of leather instead of your best friend?

Special education classes give special individual learning and instruction to those students who are in need of a more individualized instruction. These classes permit students to work at their own pace of learning. All special education classes are led by Mrs. Burkett.

(RIGHT) Donna Blevins and Linda Robinson are the ones who go through the file looking for your overdue books! (BELOW) Brenda Dodd and Shelia Stewart, who are studying for a test, will have a better understanding with help from the library.

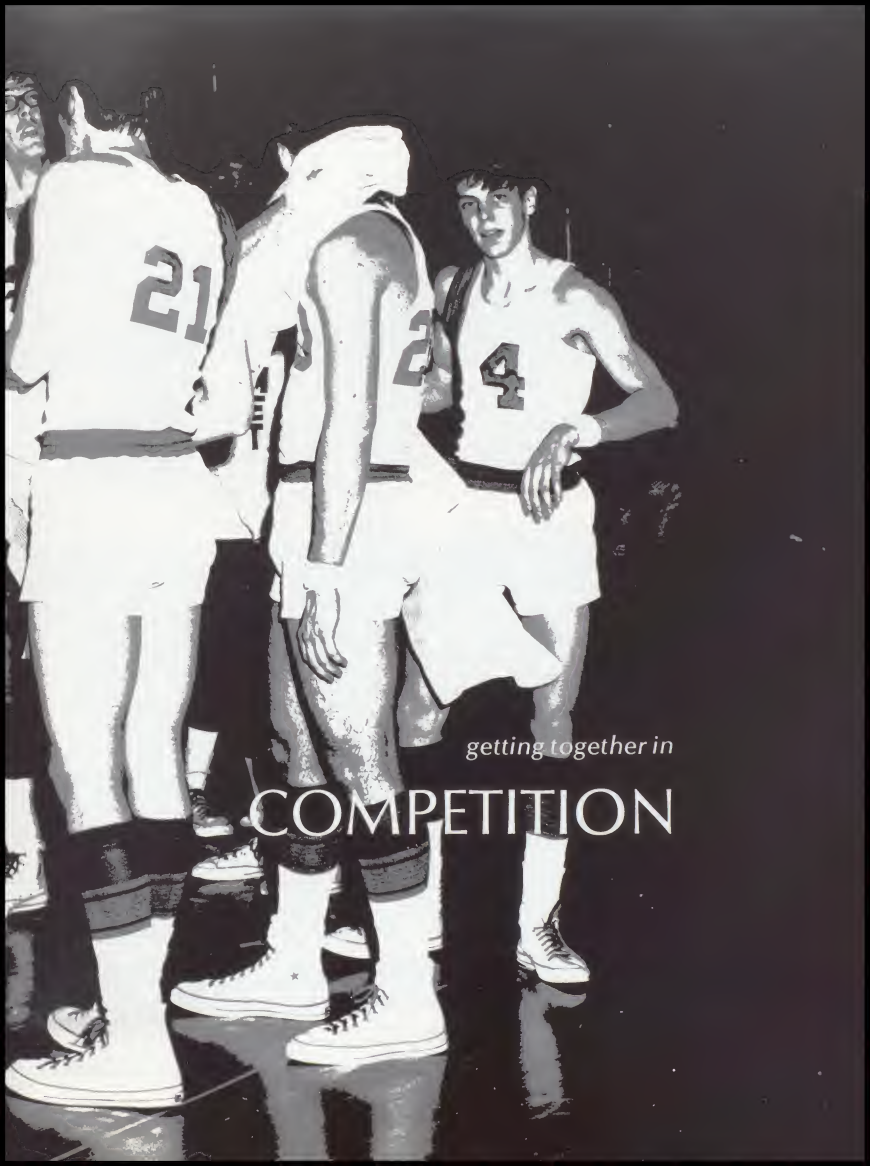

Used mostly during study halls, the library is an aid to learning. It provides a tranquil atmosphere, essential to a busy student with much homework to do.

One complete wall is devoted to references and encyclopedias, and there is an extensive periodical section which includes past issues of newspapers. The library has proved to be very beneficial to the student.

Harriers start season indoors

In the Calumet Conference meet, Dennis Allbritten clears 5'8". Dennis had previously cleared 6' in the Northern divisionals.

Calumet's track team took on a new perspective by playing host for the indoor season. The Warriors utilized their new indoor track under the new head coaching of Robert Cohoon and assistants Don Starkey and Len Schmidt.

The team's outstanding runner was Henry Butler in the 880-yard dash. Henry took second in the sectionals and regionals and fourth in the state. He also ran the mile and anchored the mile relay.

The mile relay ran most of the season undefeated. The relay consisted of Bruce Avant, Ezra Hemphill, Dan Bacon, and Henry Butler, with Jerry Yeager as alternate.

The team also won the Northern divisionals and took third in the Calumet Conference.

(RIGHT) Jesse Valdez demonstrates the best position in which to be while facing an opponent.

Wrestling, Calumet's youngest interscholastic sport, has seen a great improvement during 1969-70.

Led by Jesse Valdez 115 lb. C.C. and Sectional champion, and Mark Davis, 185 lb. C.C. champion, the Warriors completed a 7-3 dual meet record. Losing only to powerhouses Highland, Chesterton, and Lake Central enabled them to finish fourth in the conference.

Team highlights included a second place in the downstate Columbus tourney and placing third in the more difficult Hobart invitational.

The future looks bright for coaches Beckham and Pychinka with the return of ten lettermen. The J.V. team will also add to the coaches' plans by contributing young wrestlers from a 4-1 season team.

Bowlers utilize "spare" time

The bowling alley is one place for student activities that is so quiet you can hear a pin drop. In fact, the students in Calumet's Boys Bowling League hope to hear more than one pin drop as they meet at Tri-City Bowl every Friday to vie for the league championship and individual honors.

Individual first place trophies were awarded to Carl Gearhart for high game, high series, and high average. Double trophies were presented to Carl Gearhart and Joe Shingle for a scratch score, and to Clarence and Dan Wilkerson for a handicap score in tournament play.

Team honors went to Carl Saroff, Joe Shingle, Clarence Wilkerson, and Carl Gearhart for capturing high team game, high series, and league championship.

Cross-country running requires much practice, determination, and self-discipline. The harriers proved themselves a very disciplined and well organized squad this year as they strolled to several dual wins, high tournament finishes, and a ninth-place finish in the state.

Building from a fair team last year, Coach Traicoff's fleet-footed wonders were able to compile a 11-2 record, being defeated only by the top regional teams, Highland and Chesterton.

A first-place finish in the La Porte Invitational, a ninth in the state, and a third in the conference were just a few highlights of the year.

Otis Burts, ninth in the state, and Henry Butler, tenth, capped their high school careers by guiding the team through a magnificent season. Other runners contributing to a successful year were Greg Traicoff, Ernest Vasquez, Greg Gobla, Bruce Avant, and Willie Harper.

Henry Butler leads the team to another victory as he crosses the finish line ahead of the pack.

Warriors end dismal season

Sprinting for daylight, Silas Walton attempts to outrun the pursuit of the Portage Indians' defensive backs.

A football coach is like a mathematician; he has to try many formulas to come up with the right solution. This season, though, Coach Len Schmidt couldn't combine the right variables for a successful year.

Once again, the Warriors got off to a great start, winning both O'Rama games, and then taming Griffiths's Panthers. But as the year wore on, history repeated itself with successive defeats at the hands of Portage, Crown Point, Hobart, and Wirt.

Our gridiron heroes rose to the occasion to annihilate perennial doormat East Gary but then fell to Merrillville, Chesterton, and Andean.

Highlighting the drab season was the offensive play of Dave Keck, Bill Hood, Fred Keck, Tom Bush, and Tim Coffman.

The defense was a major disappointment with only Gleason Rhyne, Bruce Schwartz, and Mario Rodriguez giving performances worthy of mention.

Despite this year's failure, Coach Schmidt has hopes for the future with returning lettermen Greg Rouse, Dennis Allbritten, Marlow Jackson, Tony Casteneda, Mark Davis, and Rick Funston.

J.V. masters fundamental skills

Hurt by the loss of over half the team to the varsity squad, the junior varsity football team slipped and slid to a lackluster 3-5 record.

The fans were never at a loss for excitement although often for words, as they watched inexperience take its toll on our noble gridmen. Despite the numerous fumbles, interceptions, missed tackles, and missed blocks, the team gained valuable knowledge in football fundamentals.

The offensive play of Rick Funston and Larry Kloc, combined with the stellar defensive work of Jim Rhyne, Paul Burt, and Milo Jackovich, highlighted the otherwise drab season.

J.V. roundballers net .677 avg.

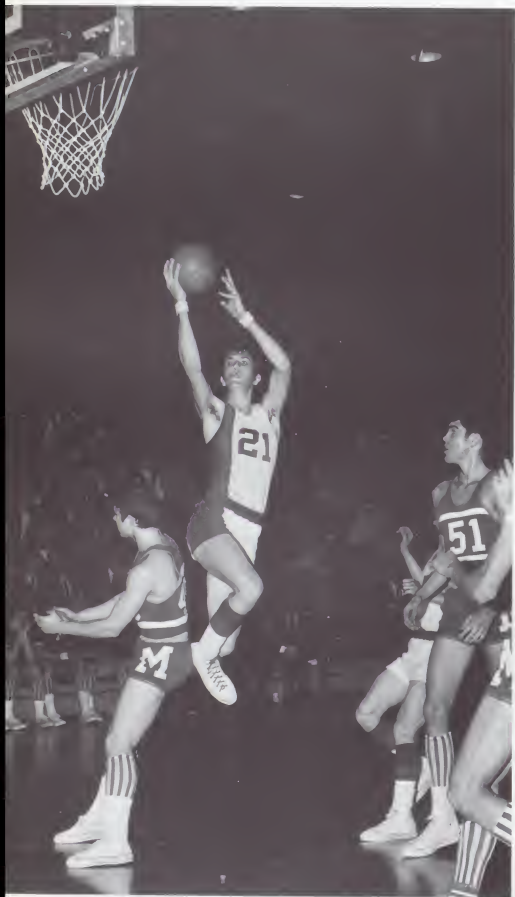

The 1969-70 basketball season was quite a shock for our junior varsity fans. The team came from a disappointing .350 winning average to a .677 winning average.

Led by Jim Anderson, John Blee, Dave Keck, and Glen Brown, the J.V. team compiled a 12-6 season record.

Strong bench support was a contributing factor to the team's success. Coach Vondrak was able to substitute freely with Rick McClanahan, Rob Childress, Rick Funston, and Paul Brock.

Dave Varney and Rick Funston await a rebound, as Jim Anderson blocks a Merrillville shot.

Basketball team's season great

This year Coach Traicoff was able to institute three key factors — defense, shooting, and rebounding, as he molded a good team of roundball veterans that displayed their poise and finesse throughout the entire season.

Carrying the bulk of the load for an 18-4 season and assuring the team of rebounding strength were the big three — Don Millington, Doug Bragg and Joe Olis. By hauling down numerous rebounds, these three titans were able to ignite the fast break which was so essential to our game plan.

Once again the Warriors shared the C.C. title with Crown Point. Other highlights were the winning of our own holiday tourney and the maintaining of a 20 game winning streak on our home court.

Batsmen

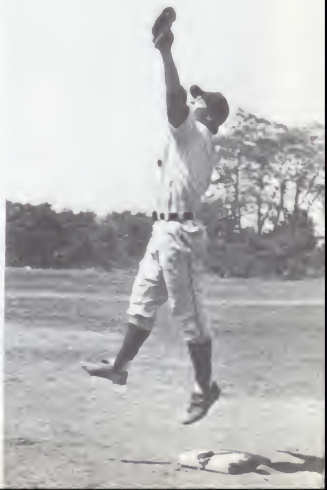

Although many people don't realize it, during the cold months of February and March, Warrior baseball candidates are working hard for a position on the team. This year was no different as Coach Trcka's Warriors ran hard and practiced long to prepare for the upcoming season.

The season didn't turn out as well as expected. The team ended its season with a 9-19 record. Its finest performances came in the beginning of the season when it compiled eight of its nine victories. The team suffered the loss of Mike Lovings midway during the season, and this hindered its later performances.

The Warriors will lose such stalwarts as Fred Keck, Barry Porter, John Taylor, and Larry Dye. Dye collected all three trophies consisting of most valuable player, most offensive points, and highest batting average, with .375. He also broke three records by getting six triples, 21 stolen bases, and 27 hits.

Golfers finish 5th in sectional

Calumet's golf team compiled an 11-10 record this season and a 5-5 record in conference play. The Warrior linksmen also placed fifth out of nineteen in the Lake Hills Sectional, which is the highest a Calumet team has ever finished.

The Warriors were led by senior Joe Olis, who won the most valuable player award for the fourth straight season. With capable assistance from juniors Doug Nasby and Richard Page, and steady improvement from seniors Jack Willsey and Carl Saroff, and sophomore Jay Austin, the Warriors, even though losing 10, were in every match.

Sophomores order class rings

Leading the class of "72" this year were class officers Joe Robinson, president; Mona Scott, vice-president; Carol Simunic, secretary; and Penny Hollenbaugh, treasurer. Helping the officers organize meetings and projects were Mrs. Evelyn Houllis and Miss Johnnie McCray. Also helping the class and giving up time was the Class Planning Committee.

This year the class of "72" is serving its second year as being the youngest class of C.H.S. they have proved that they can take on the many responsibilities of upperclassmen.

The main highlight of this year was the ordering of class rings. Another highlight included an open dance featuring the great World Column. Other successful projects included the sponsoring of the Homecoming Pep Session, a jersey sale, a dance featuring the True Grit, basketball sticker sale, a soup supper, Valentine flowers, and decorating the halls in cooperation with the senior and junior classes for the Christmas Holiday.

Juniors tackle a successful year

Chosen to lead the junior class into action for the 1969-70 school year were president, Duane Cheek; vice-president, Kathi Ordean; secretary, Ann Buerger; and treasurer, Linda Lowe. To help in completing the tasks they started was sponsor Ron Semba, who was a great help to all juniors. The students took part in fund-raising activities that helped to make the prom a success.

Juniors showed great enthusiasm while participating in the many money-making projects during the year. The big events planned by the junior class were: the prom, candy sale, a car wash, decorating the halls, and a successful dance featuring the "Enchanters." These money-making projects helped in financing the prom entitled "A Time For Us." The prom was well planned and had a very good turnout.

These Juniors are looking forward to their Senior year and to making it one of the best years in school. Soon Juniors will be graduating and then going out into the world on their own as a success or failure.

N.H.S. inspires scholars

The Calumet High School Chapter of the National Honor Society sponsored the candy sale during lunch hours. Money earned from the sale went toward scholarships offered to members.

The fact that the high school this year offered only three years of education has made it impossible to abide by the old constitution. The Honor Society had to revise its constitution to coincide with the requirements of the national chapter in Washington, D.C.

Ken Duke and Tom Rosenwinkel emcee the annual Slave Sale sponsored by Student Council for the Calumet Aid Program. The highest selling slaves were Laura Bank, $13.50 and Joe Olis, $13.10.

This year the Calumet High School Student Council obtained more power than it had ever before possessed.

The Student Council was able to abolish the dress code through tedious study, opinion polls, and finally the permission of the Lake Ridge School Board.

Homecoming, another Student Council project came off tremendously with Dawn Harms reigning as Queen. Her attendants were Starr Ross, Teresa Wallin, and Sandy Nix.

One of the Student Council's infrequent disappointments was its failure to abolish the closed campus regulations.

D.E.C.A. wins traveling trophy

Providing training and leadership in marketing and distribution is the purpose of the Distributive Education Clubs of America. This year Calumet's chapter won the traveling trophy for the third consecutive year in the Lake County Region. In order to obtain this award, the club competed in the categories of job interviews, public speakings, ad layouts, and sales demonstrations.

A rummage sale, car wash, candy sale, and calendar towel sale all helped to contribute funds for our growing D.E.C.A. Chapter.

O.E.A. wins state honors

The Office Education Association placed first in the Indiana State Convention with students qualifying for the national convention held in Fort Worth, Texas.

To enable the winners to attend, O.E.A. held a spaghetti supper and fashion show.

Sec. Club prepares girls

Secretarial Club had three successful bake sales this year that put quite a lot of money in their treasury.

Geri Brown and Janice Timmerman, officers of the Secretarial Club, each received a $75 scholarship from the club this year.

The club also took an educational trip to Victor Business School in Hammond.

Y-teens have pop bottle drive

Y-teens most successful project this year was a pop bottle drive. All the money from this project went into their treasury except for $18 that Y-Teens donated to C.A.P.

The club planned to work with welfare children, but this fell through because of lack of interest.

The girls finished their year together with a trip to Brookfield Zoo.

The Chemistry Club began the year as the second largest club at Calumet. Numerous professors and meteorologists were invited as speakers during club periods.

A trip to Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company was taken at the end of the year. The club members viewed the manufacturing of steel and steel products from ore to the finished product.

Teachers, nurses of tomorrow

Future Teachers of America and Future Nurses of America are two of the career-oriented organizations at Calumet High School.

This year Future Nurses of America prepared cheer baskets for less fortunate people. They also took a trip to Beatty Memorial Hospital in Westville.

Languages of

The French Club was the most active language club this year. The club held a baby contest and donated the proceeds to C.A.P. The French Club also held a French program with singers, dancers, and skits. The money that the French Club made this year will be used to purchase magazines for the French room. The Club ended their year together with a trip to Chicago to see the movie "Z".

The Spanish Club took a trip to Field Museum. They also gave $10 to send a girl to Girl's State.

The Latin Club sponsored a paper drive.

Girls can be “jocks,” too!

A new sponsor is now associated with Calumet' G.A.A. Miss Laura Baird now tackles with the girls.

The year began with the Whangdapootan-owahs defeating Friend's Fiends. The Powderpuff game was exciting although the score was not neck-n-neck! Other activities included basketball, volleyball, track, and softball.

A new constitution was introduced this year to comply with state rules and regulations. Sophomores are now eligible to earn a state award when they are seniors.

The Senior Award, given at the G.A.A. banquet, went to Janet Shoemaker. Teresa Wallin received the Service Award. Sharon Borom received the Outstanding Award and Donna Chileras the award for “best bowler.”

The G.A.A. Ball, held December 6, was the highlight of the club's activities. “Moonlit Carousel” was chosen as the theme.

Literary talent recognized

Kaleidoscope published an early edition this year. The 50-page issue came out in December with Linda Oglesby as editor.

Prize winners were Randy Handley, Brenda Borns, Charles Sheets, and Jerry Yeager.

“Web of Murder”

This year Calumet Players produced one play, “Web of Murder.” The play proved to be very entertaining and had quite a large turnout.

There were so many unexpected people, the programs had to be collected at the end of the first performance in order to have enough for the next night's show. The acting looked professional, and the cast and audience seemed to enjoy themselves.

Go, team!

Supporting the team with yells, screams, and other loud noises, the Pep Club provides the team with school support. Led by the cheerleaders, the pep block performed numerous cheers to arouse spirit.

Part way through the season, the Pep Club was challenged by the Rafter Rats. After this "confrontation", support for the Pep Club increased.

P-O-W-E-R, POWER! That's what Calumet cheerleaders have when it comes to arousing spirit in the student body.

Practicing twice a week after school and giving up time to assure the team support are a few of the requirements needed for becoming a cheerleader.

The Varsity Cheerleaders, Alice Cline, Sandi Misner, Alberta Valencia, and Sherry Wallace, led by Jackie Morgenroth, were in charge of creating a sense of spirit and enthusiasm.

The Junior Varsity squad, led by Donna DePew, included Judy Cliborne, Helena Gruszyk, Lena Zeljkovich, Denise Allbritten, and Cheryline Rowell. These girls are prospects for the Varsity squad and worked equally hard to support the Junior Varsity sporting events.

Varsity Club sees Sox play

Calumet's Varsity Club sponsored the sale of potato chips and the orange juice machine which helped raise money for the two field trips.

They went downstate to see the Purdue-Iowa football game at Purdue University. The club also traveled to White Sox Park in May to view a professional baseball game.

Girls prepare for their futures

Homemakers Club's main project was cheer baskets. Approximately $100 was spent for groceries taking care of over 40 families.

The club also took a trip to the Field Museum, had a successful bakesale, and gave $50 to C.A.P.

The $100 scholarship that the club gives to an outstanding member went to Teresa Wallin this year.

Well, to the best of the staff's ability, anyway. They doubled their output with a bi-weekly paper, had more photography in their editions, and because of these better qualities they sold more papers.

Deadlines had to be met and this was solved by harder work and many hours after school. The lights in Room 211 burned while the rest of the school was dark.

More than once there were conflicts with the school officials about the editorials and stories that the Warrior printed, but this did not stop the truth from being told.

At the beginning of the school year, the 1970 Chieftain staff found themselves financially under water. This was due to a more than $3500 deficit after final payment was made for the 1969 yearbook.

This grave situation was attacked through sponsoring two dances, soliciting new advertisers, and selling patron ads.

Staff members visited Root Photographers in Chicago in Marh and attended the Northern Indiana Journalism Seminar at Valparaiso University in April.

The 1970 Chieftain features the use of color throughout the first 32 pages, special effects division pages, and photographs on the cover.

Seniors seem to be happy to leave, but deep inside they will never leave Calumet High School.

As the seniors sit back now and think over the many happenings of the past four years, various expressions of sadness, joy, worry and contentment spread across their faces. Four years seemed like a century back in '66 but four years have come and gone and now those timid freshmen have made it to the top of the pole. They must look ahead now and begin making the many difficult decisions facing them as young adults.

When they gather together for the last time in May, they'll recall their high school years with fond remembrance. They'll carry only memories of these years for there will be no turning back. Now they must look to the future with eagerness to fulfill their new hopes and ambitions. They completed the first step and now they must prepare for the next.

emotions

It's hard to believe that you're really graduating. It seems you just started your high school years and now it's coming to an end. Soon you'll be a CHS alumnus. When you get that diploma, you'll recall a lot of things — things which will stay with you for the rest of your life.

Now you're starting a whole new era of your life. That diploma in your hand holds the key to your future. It's up to you to make that key open the right doors.

Yes, you're leaving good ol' CHS now, but you're taking with you all the fun and happiness that came with it. You'll always have these memories, no matter what your future holds. And nobody in the world could ever take them away from you.

FUTURE IN FOCUS?

TAKE A LOOK AT INLAND

Steel—one of our nation's most basic—yet most exciting industries. Inland, dynamic in its approach to steelmaking, has provided challenging opportunities for thousands of young men and women. Whether your interest is in production, laboratory or clerical areas or in any of numerous craft training programs, Inland has the size to suit your growth potential—the job to challenge your ability.

Well, we made it. Page 196.
The 1970 CHIEFTAIN is finished.

The completion of this book brought a sigh of relief to us, the CHIEFTAIN staff, but it also left us in eager anticipation of its arrival.

A new adviser came to the CHIEFTAIN inexperienced in yearbooking, but did come through with lots of ideas and encouragement.

Probably the first things you noticed about this book were the cover and extensive use of color in the opening sections. We hope to continue trends like these in the future.

We hope you like this book now and will keep on liking it in the many years to come.

Peace,
The 1970 CHIEFTAIN staff

the 1990s, the number of people with a diagnosis of schizophrenia has increased in the United Kingdom (Meltzer and Peck 1998). This has led to a growing reliance on the use of drugs to manage the condition.

There is a growing body of evidence that the use of drugs to manage schizophrenia is associated with a number of adverse effects. These include weight gain, metabolic changes, and an increased risk of cardiovascular disease (Meltzer and Peck 1998). In addition, the use of drugs can lead to a number of other problems, including sedation, dizziness, and constipation (Meltzer and Peck 1998). These problems can be particularly problematic for people with schizophrenia, who may already be experiencing a number of other difficulties.

One of the main reasons for the increasing use of drugs to manage schizophrenia is the fact that there is a growing reliance on the use of drugs to manage the condition. This is due to a number of factors, including the fact that there is a growing reliance on the use of drugs to manage the condition.
